
Billboard Bureau of Nonsense

About this Community

What it is: A light role-play where everyone becomes a Field Agent auditing roadside billboards for hidden meanings, coded missions, and delightful absurdity. The driver drives; passengers interpret.

Prime Directive: Obey traffic laws, keep eyes on the road, and avoid distractions. All missions are optional and auto-void if they would reduce safety or courtesy.

How it plays: Each billboard spawns a quick mission card - rhyme the slogan, spot a color trio in the next town, find a funny alternate meaning, or deliver the next announcement in Shakespearean drama. Success earns tiny perks (choose the next song, pick a snack aisle); failure yields playful forfeit (read the next billboard in a pirate voice).

Examples: Rhyme Audit, Color Triad Hunt, Secret Mascot Theory, Seat-Swap at Next Stop, Dramatic Reading Protocol.

Sample Rules / Principles

• Kindness Clause

Ritual: If a billboard is a public service or local charity, acknowledge it with a positive comment or optional share later. Penalty: None; good vibes only. Safety: No engagement while driving; respect privacy and local...

• Agent Field Report

Ritual: Compose a 10-word "field report" summary of the last billboard and log it in the shared note. Penalty: Skip & you are on snack inventory duty at the next stop. Safety: Passengers type; driver...

• Hidden Number Pull

Ritual: Extract a number from the billboard (area code digit, miles, count of words) and use it to select the Nth song or snack on the list. Penalty: If no number found, the chooser tells a two-sentence micro-myth about...

• Logo Lookalike

Ritual: Find a real-world object whose shape echoes the billboard logo (cloud, hill, overpass) and call it out. Penalty: None; first caller picks the next photo stop name. Safety: Photos only when parked.
